Mediation Training

Mediation is fast becoming an important service within the community, to help people address problems and to avoid conflict and litigation. With fewer services available from within the statutory sector, mediation is promoted by the government as a serious way to help families, organisations and communities deal with conflict and resolve problems.

Mediation Plus is now offering:

Developing Mediation Skills Course Level 3

Accredited with Open College Network, London (OCN London) - 6 credits at level 3

The Qualification provides an understanding of the mediation process and the key skills involved in the role of a mediator.

This course offers the opportunity to those who wish to mediate with interpersonal disputes, to access high quality, interactive training. Giving participants the opportunity to develop their mediation skills through exercises, group work and role play. Mediation skills are applicable to many professional sectors, including: housing, young people's services, family support, education and many more.

Duration: 4 days

Cost:

£750.00 for corporate/private sponsored learners

£500.00 per independent learner or third sector worker/volunteer

£250.00 per learner who intends to work as a volunteer mediator for Mediation Plus

Includes OCN London registration for 6 credits
